

EDUCATIONAL WEEK WILL BE OBSERVED

Principals and Teachers Planning Programs for Period Nov. 7-13

Arrangements are being made by principals and teachers of the various local schools for a suitable observance of American Education Week, this year to be internationally observed, Nov. 7-13. Programs in the various schools will be carried out by principals and teachers according to plans outlined by Jesse H. Mason, school superintendent, in literature received from the National Education Association, or as seems most fitting to officials of the individual schools.

School children of all nations will this year observe Education Week, in accordance with action taken at the Toronto meeting of the World Federation of Education Associations. The purpose of such an observance, it is said, is to "acquaint the public with the work and needs of the schools."

In the program outlined by the N. E. A., American Legion and other organizations, Monday, Nov. 7, is designated as "Health Day"; Tuesday as "Home and School Day"; Wednesday, "Know Your School Day"; Thursday, "School Opportunity Day"; Friday, "Armed Forces Day"; Saturday, "Community Day"; and Sunday, "For God and Country Day."

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to keep her locks dark, Glossy, Beautiful

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair good, even color, which is quite possible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the money minting at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by moving the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.—Adv.

HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY HOLDS MEET

Mrs. F. M. Hazen Entertains Members of Prospect M. E. Group

Prospect, Nov. 2.—The Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. F. M. Hazen, 8, Main St., Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. A. L. Gast as hostess.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. W. H. Davis, and opened with a song "Working for Home Missions." Mrs. R. C. Wilcox had charge of the devotion, reading 1 Cor. 13:1-17, with comments. All joined in the reading of a prayer from "Woman's Home Missions." Reports were given by the secretary and treasurer, and by the Temperance and Sunday school departments. During the business session plans were made for the Thanksgiving service, and the Marion County group meeting to be held in the local church in the near future.

Mrs. Hazen had charge of the program, and gave the prologue to the second chapter of the textbook, "New Paths for Old Purposes," the subject being "A New Frontier of Christian Missions." Mrs. Hazen was assisted by Mrs. J. C. Cherry, giving conditions in China; Mrs. H. A. Wilson, conditions in Japan; and Mrs. Tom Carson, conditions in India. Mrs. Elmer Benaley gave a reading on the "Prayer for Peace." Mrs. O. E. Smith a poem, "Common Things." A playlet entitled "A Larger Thanksgiving" was given by Mrs. W. H. Davis as Catherine Maurer, a deaconess at Angel Island; Mrs. O. E. Smith, as Miss Lora Success; Mrs. J. M. Sites as Mrs. Winsome Evergood; Mrs. W. M. Keller as Mrs. Will Tholittle; Mrs. Charles Collier as Mrs. Hanson Grouch, and Mrs. A. D. Graham as Mrs. Mercy Justice. Mrs. A. L. Gast gave "Echoes of the Annual Meeting," held recently in Baltimore. Enigmas were in charge of Mrs. John Reynolds. The meeting closed with a prayer from the scrap book by Mrs. C. W. Dagnade, after which refreshments were served by the hostesses.

LINDBERGH COMPLETES HIS AIR TOUR OF THE NATION

Famous Civil War Bridge
Condemned After 89 Years

Old Kentucky Bridge of Civil War Fame

NICHOLASVILLE, Ky., Nov. 2.—Historic old Camp Nelson bridge, one of the most interesting wooden spans in the United States has been condemned by highway authorities as unsafe and will be maintained hereafter purely because of its historical associations.

Locally, it is known as the Wernag bridge. It was built in 1838 by A. L. Wernag, a pioneer bridge contractor.

It spans the Kentucky river near the Palisades, and is 225 feet in length. Construction is that not a single ounce

An unusual feature of its construction is that it is pinned together by the oak pins used by the original builder nearly 90 years ago. It is said to be the longest single-span cantilever bridge in the world.

When the Civil war started, it was the only bridge crossing the Kentucky river. General Nelson, with his federal forces seized it and built Camp Nelson nearby. After the battle of Perryville, the union held on the span was never seriously disputed.

Ruins of the old camp still are in evidence, and nearby is the national cemetery, where more than 3,000 soldiers of the "sixties" lie buried.

For many years the camp ruins, the cemetery, and the bridge have been among the outstanding points of interest in this part of the hills of Kentucky.

The cart
before the horse

To choose a new car simply on the basis of the largest allowance for your present car is like putting the cart before the horse.

For the real measure of a trade-in transaction is how much new car value you get for your present car, plus the balance that you pay in cash.

You trade-in your present car for a new car most wisely when you are guided by these facts:

1. Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value: that is what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
2. Your present car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
3. The largest allowance offered is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; sometimes it is not. An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

From the car-buyer's standpoint, a trade-in transaction is a purchase, not a sale. So first judge the value of a new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your present car.

Large Amount of Freight For New Cargo Steamers To Be Shipped Through Here

New Lake Carriers Added to Line of Canadian Pacific Railway Co.; Will Maintain Weekly Schedule with Nine-Day Service

No small portion of the freight that will go to fill the five new freight cargo steamers to be added to the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. will pass through Marion. The new steamers will pick up freight from lake ports at Montreal and West St. John for London and Continental ports.

These steamers will carry 10,000 tons and will have a maximum capacity of 13,000 tons or 570,000 cubic feet. In addition to this they will have a refrigerated cargo space of 1,500 cubic feet, with compartments for various types of refrigerated cargoes, and special bulkheads so that bulk grain may be carried. The cargo spaces are fitted with special electric fan ventilation so that fruit cargoes may be carried safely. They will also have complete stowage for live stock.

These vessels have been especially built for navigation in ice. They will maintain a weekly schedule, making a service of nine days in transit.

The Hocking Valley freight house is being repaired. The paint is being applied with a new automatic spray. A light gray paint is being used.

Both the Hocking Valley and Pennsylvania railroads have repaired their tracks over the Prospect road. The Hocking Valley laid new one-piece rails over the crossing and also laid a rock asphalt covering.

A new signal pole has been installed by the Pennsylvania at the Center street crossing.

SUFFERED AFTER EVERY MEAL DUE TO INDIGESTION

Stomach Misery and Kidney Troubles Banished by the New Konjola, Says Marysville Man

The surprising medical compound, Konjola, which The Konjola Man is explaining to crowds of people daily at the Stump Pharmacy, 121 South Main St., Marion, has not only become the sensation of this city, but is also the talk of cities and towns throughout this entire section. For instance, just a few days ago, Mr. A. D. Sherman, for 27 years a contractor of Marion, now living at Route 1, Marysville, Ohio, made the following statement about the remarkable recovery Konjola gave him:

"I had a severe case of stomach trouble about 13 years," said Mr. Sherman. "After every meal I was subject to indigestion and all kinds of miseries. My food would ferment and sour. This brought on spells of gas and bloating which made me short of breath and brought pains around my heart. I had dizzy spells and feelings like I would faint. The condition of my kidneys was just as bad as my stomach. I got up very often at nights, which broke up my rest, and always felt weak and sore across the region of my kidneys. I had been hearing of Konjola and what this medicine was doing in Marion. I gave it a trial and I want to tell you that I am feeling like I never had stomach or kidney trouble in my life. The indigestion pains are gone, appetite is increased and I never have gas bloating or heartburn like I suffered before. My kidneys are in the best condition they have been in years. Pains never center in my back any more and I don't have dizzy spells. The night riding is ended and there is a great difference in the way I feel each morning. Konjola has certainly changed my whole condition and made me feel years younger, so I gladly give it my endorsement."

The Konjola Man is at the Stump and Stump Pharmacy 121 South Main street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Five samples given.—Ad.

ON THE ## Streets of Marion

—WITH THE STAR STAFF

THIS year's political campaign in the city of Marion—provided there really is a campaign—is unusual in some respects and probably the most extraordinary of all its features is the almost complete lack of interest which has prevailed thus far.

The state of apathy takes in not only the general public, but appears to extend to the candidates themselves. No one seems to be putting forth no particular effort to garner the votes necessary for victory on Nov. 8.

Now and then there is a show of interest in some of the issues involved, especially in relation to the much-discussed Marshall Bill. This is a measure enacted by the recent legislature for the purpose of providing a definite pay schedule for mayors and justices of the peace throughout the state.

Asserting that it will enable these officials to continue operation on a fee basis contrary to a recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court, opponents of the measure are submitting it to a referendum vote.

Confessing over what the vote on the Marshall Bill will be in Marion County is the subject of considerable debate and promises to result in the betting fraternity placing a large number of wagers on the outcome.

That the vote will be close in Marion County is the prediction of Fred W. Warner, local attorney who is chairman of the Republican State Committee and is regarded as somewhat of an expert in analyzing political situations.

Warner is making no forecasts on whether the issue will receive a majority of the vote in this county but he is of the opinion that the margin either way will be small, probably not more than 100.

On the other hand, there are those who assert that because all temperance and prohibition proposals have invariably carried by large majorities in Marion County, the Marshall Bill is certain to be approved here by a substantial margin. This prediction is based on the fact that the Anti-Saloon League is fighting hard for the measure.

Against this surmise is the contention that the issue involved is law enforcement and the question of whether the Marshall Bill is constitutional. This circumstance, it is asserted, makes it probable that all day voters will not harken to the Anti-Saloon League's pleas and arguments.

It is one of the few phases of the election which promise to give the public some excitement and to await with interest the final count of ballots.

BEARING an ordinary paper sack W. A. Shuster, 606 Bellentine, walked into The Star office late yesterday afternoon. He asked to see the managing editor and was shown into that individual's office.

Placing the mysterious sack upon a desk Mr. Shuster opened the conversation with the remark: "Here's something you seldom see."

And untying the neck of the bag Mr. Shuster spread upon the desk a handful of strawberries and several bunches of red raspberries, grown at the rear of his home on Ballentine.

According to Mr. Shuster nearly two quarts of raspberries have been taken from the bushes at the rear of his home within the last two weeks.

During the last few days of warm weather the strawberry plants have started to blossom and in the event cold weather holds off there will be more berries to pick later on.

PROVING once again that truth is always the foundation of legend (no apologies to Sir Arthur Conan Doyle) a close relation has been found between the terms "cheese" and "con." This discovery was made on the Streets of Marion, no longer ago than the current week.

The fact that twenty years ago, first said, "Cheese, d' con!" would have no doubt bowled with glee, had he witnessed Patrolman Bert Myers and

Senator Demands Probe of Ohio Prohibition Department

DOMINATED BY LEAGUE, CHARGE

Herbert's Action Result of McDonald's Open Support of Marshall Bill

Columbus, Nov. 2.—B. F. McDonald, state prohibition commissioner, conferred with Gov. Vincent Belmont today at the governor's office this morning. It was believed that the conference related to the announcement by State Senator Paul M. Herbert, Columbus, that he will demand a probe by the Ohio Legislature of the alleged irregularities affecting the state prohibition department, the Ohio Anti-Saloon League and various prohibition agents throughout the state.

McDonald said, after the conference, that he expected to make public sometime today a reply to Senator Herbert.

Columbus, Nov. 2.—An investigation of the state prohibition department of Ohio, when and if the legislature is called in special session early next year, was in prospect today, following the announcement of State Senator Paul Herbert of Columbus that he would demand such action.

Herbert's announcement, made in an open letter to B. F. McDonald, state prohibition director, was the result of McDonald's open support of the Marshall Bill, passed by the last legislature, which was designed to restore the peace and order of rural justice of the peace and minor magistrates.

The Marshall Bill, passed by the last legislature, will be submitted to a referendum vote next week.

"Dominated by League"

"Herbert, in his letter, charged that McDonald's department was 'dominated by the Anti-Saloon League,' and that prohibition enforcement officers had 'planted' evidence to obtain bootlegging convictions."

He demanded an explanation of the practice by attorneys for the Ohio Anti-Saloon League of prosecuting liquor cases worked up by McDonald's agents, and by constables.

Citing two instances in which he had obtained signed statements which indicated irregularities in the placing of evidence to obtain liquor convictions, Herbert asserted that such practices were carried on with the full knowledge of McDonald, and said that at the legislature investigation, he would call upon McDonald to explain the following specific charges:

1. The "planting" of liquor upon innocent persons.

2. Transfer of liquor from one court to another to be used as evidence.

3. Use of state inspectors to "serve" the private whims and aims of the Anti-Saloon League.

4. Usurpation by attorneys of the Anti-Saloon League of the prerogatives of the prosecuting attorneys.

5. Wholesale pardoning of bootleggers from the Canton workhouse.

6. Use of forged search warrants in raiding homes.

Must Prove Death

New Jersey Law Demands Positive Proof That Phil Payne Died in Oversea Flight Before Estate Can Be Settled

Mrs. Dorothy Hughes Payne; inset, Phil Payne; below, the ill-fated "Old Glory."

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 1.—Out of the gray wastes of the Atlantic ocean, which hide the fate of the transatlantic plane, Old Glory, has come a problem for New Jersey courts to decide.

When Phil Payne, New York, editor and passenger on the flight, made his will and named his wife, Dorothy, as his sole beneficiary, he thought he had provided amply for her in case of disaster.

But Payne did not reckon with the law of New Jersey where his will has been filed for probate and where the question of the legality of his death must come up.

The world in general and kinship of Payne believe he is dead. But the law of New Jersey must know for a certainty.

And a fortune of $100,000 may be tied up as a result.

New Jersey law provides that where a physician's certificate of death is not submitted, a person must be absent from his home at least seven years and all reasonable efforts to find him exhausted unless a way out can be found when the question of Payne's death comes up, as it soon will in Orphan's Court here.

But they may all have to wait seven years for their inheritance unless a way out can be found when the question of Payne's death comes up, as it soon will in Orphan's Court here.

DENY REWARD OFFER IN CRESTLINE CASE

Belief Expressed That Murder Mystery Will Soon Be Solved

Crestline, Nov. 2.—With three men held in county jail, and Ora Slater, Cincinnati private detective, continuing his investigation, county authorities here today denied they had offered any reward for the arrest of the slayers of Ray Heckler, believed to have been beaten to death and thrown into the river here Saturday night, and expressed belief the crime would soon be solved.

These held are William Rose, arrested last night on a technical charge of violating the liquor laws, George McPherson, who pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault and battery, and Ray Brewer, held on suspicion. Authorities did not charge any of the persons held with the actual killing, but in directed their investigation showed they all were in the vicinity of the murder scene, or in company with Heckler a short time before the last known movements of the dead man.

NATIONAL ALUMNI HEADS BACK WILCE

J. L. Morrill and J. B. Nordholt Oppose Agitation Against Coach

Columbus, Nov. 2.—Strongly opposing all agitation seeking retirement of Dr. J. W. Wilce, as head coach of the Ohio State football team, J. L. Morrill, National O. S. U. Alumni secretary, and J. B. Nordholt, Toledo, past president of the National O. S. U. Alumni organization, issued statements here today.

"I am a strong adherent of Dr. Wilce, believing in his coaching policy and what he stands for in college athletics," declared Nordholt. "I do not believe that the action, reported today in the Toledo Alumni, is representative of the opinion of the National O. S. U. Alumni organization or even of the general opinion at Toledo on the football coaching situation at Ohio State University."

"More than that, I regard it as a completely misrepresentative commentary upon the good sense, sportsmanship and loyalty of the Ohio State Alumni generally."

"It is my positive conviction," Morrill said, "that the reported action of the Toledo alumni is representative neither of the opinion of the National O. S. U. Alumni organization nor even of the general opinion at Toledo on the football coaching situation at Ohio State University."

MOTHER'S DREAM IS REALIZED

CHAIRMEN'S SESSION HELD AT COURTHOUSE

Will Name Committees for Entertainment of G. O. P. Women Soon

The list of committees for the entertainment of members of the Ohio Council of Republican Women making the pilgrimage to the town of President and Mrs. Harding, Nov. 11, will be completed within the next few days, it was announced today by Mrs. Frank A. McKee, local representative of the council and general chairman for the activities here.

A meeting of the chairmen last night in the office of the county commissioners completed a number of details and arrangements. Reservations for the banquet to be held Friday night in the Neil House ballroom were patched to Columbus headquarters today. Mrs. French Crow, who is in charge of the reservations for Marion County, announced that reservations can be made until Nov. 7 by calling her at 6213. Automobiles will be furnished for all women from the county wishing to attend the banquet, it was announced. Local women will accompany the state delegation back to Columbus following the ceremony at the town and attend the meeting to be held at 3 o'clock in the Hall of Mirrors at the Deshler Hotel, when the visitors will be welcomed by Mayor Thomas, Columbus, and a talk will be given by Mrs. William Sinclair LeVan, Steubenville, republican national committeewoman for Ohio. Talks at the banquet will be given by Senators Fox and Willis and Miss Lucile Atcherson, Columbus, of the diplomatic service. Reservations indicate that there will be an attendance of about 3,000 Republican women at the conference, according to Mrs. LeVan, who is in Columbus, completing arrangements for the meeting. Women from all over the state have signified their intention of attending the meeting, which promises to be the largest of the kind held in the state.

BEDDING ON TRUCK BURNS IN TRANSIT

Owners of Household Goods Quench Flames by Using Garden Hose

With visions of their household effects going up in smoke, two colored men and a colored woman who were riding through from Akron to Chicago on a truck which was conveying their household effects from one city to the other, created considerable excitement on E. Center street shortly after midnight, when their goods were discovered to be on fire.

The fire, which is thought to have been caused by a cigarette dropped on bed clothing, was discovered in front of the home of A. L. Bantz, 670 E. Center street. Leaping from the truck, the men ran into the Bantz home, where, after arousing Mrs. Bantz, obtained a garden hose with which they sprayed the load of household effects until the arrival of Fire Chief McFarland, with several men from central station. The fire was confined to the bed clothing.

FIREMEN RESPOND TO 17 CALLS IN MONTH

October Loss Is Placed at $3,600; Damage Last Year Was $931

Seventeen calls were responded to by the city fire department during October with a fire loss of approximately $3,600 according to the report for the month made by Fire Chief McFarland today. During the corresponding month last year the department responded to 15 calls with a fire loss of approximately $931.

The unusual long spell of dry weather during the month of October was responsible for the unusual number of calls while the warm weather which prevailed during the entire month, undoubtedly presented a much larger loss as there were fewer fires from sparks on ahole roofs than usually occur in the fall and spring.

OSTEOPATHS ISSUE STATEMENT ON BILL

Say They Are Not Interested in Outcome of Measure at Election

Aroused by a misunderstanding which has arisen regarding their interest in the chiropractors' bill which will be presented to the voters of the state at the election next week, local osteopathic physicians have issued a statement in which they deny any interest whatever in the measure. Dr. E. K. Clark was spokesman for the osteopaths.

Osteopathy, they say, has no connection whatever with chiropractic methods of treatment and osteopathic physicians have never been compelled to ask any special favors of the legislature in the matter of the limitation of their practice.

The same medical examination which is required of physicians, is taken by osteopathic physicians and the license to practice is granted by the state medical board.

HERB'S MORE ABOUT FALL-SINCLAIR

Deputy U. S. Marshals today within a half hour after a mistrial was declared.

Taken to Jury Room

Kidwell was halted by the deputies as he tried to leave the federal building. He appeared reluctant to accompany them but after they spoke to him a moment, he went along willingly.

The jury was taken immediately to the grand jury room on the third floor of the building. Attorneys in the office of United States Attorney Peyton Gordon said he had not been "booked" on any charge.

After being taken into the grand jury room, Kidwell was told he did not have to testify unless he so desired. He waived immunity, it was announced.

Justice Siddons convened court at 10:10 o'clock calling in the jury. There was a craning of necks as Kidwell walked into the room. He took his seat in the jury box obviously nervous and ill at ease.

The defendants arrived early. Fall wore a black suit, a black bow tie and carried a worn black felt hat. He appeared to have aged greatly. Sinclair, however, was in a jovial mood again. He wore a light-colored blue serge suit, a highly colored four in hand tie and tossed his new gray felt hat carelessly on a window sill in the characteristic manner that caused Juror Kidwell to term him a "Democratic man."

Kidwell Eyed

Siddons first spoke of the proceedings yesterday. Then he turned to Kidwell.

"There is one matter I want to call to the attention of Juror Kidwell," said the court. "I want to say to him that two affidavits were filed, one by J. Ray Akers and one by Don Key King, in which they averred that they were certain statements made by you. They are part of the record of this court. They are available for you to read at any time as they are a part of the record of this trial. I will not ask you to make any statement at this time."

Kidwell gulped with great effort, while other members of the jury stared curiously at him. Every eye in the courtroom was on the unfortunate juror. His face grew red and he grasped the arms of his chair.

The court then touched upon the action of the attorneys in the secret session yesterday in agreeing that the trial should end as a result of the affidavits.

Dundas Jurors

"The court then turned again to the jury and said: 'I shall have to dismiss the jury and I do so. You are dismissed from further service on the present panel.' Thus the first trial of Fall and Sinclair passed into history.

Neither Fall nor Sinclair would comment on the action of the jury in ending the trial. The juror, Kidwell, however, was just as reticent at first but later denied the most serious charges.

"I never said that about the car or that Sinclair was a good fellow," said Kidwell. "And I never said anything about an offer being made me. I did talk to Akers and King but I refused to talk about the case. They tried to get me drunk. I have been sober for three years but I don't know why he tried to get me drunk. In fact, that's all I have got to say."

Government counsel, particularly Roberts, were obviously annoyed because Justice Siddons failed to cite Kidwell for contempt of court.

Sees Contempt Case

"I never saw a clearer case," he said, "and I think the justice should have cited him then and there."

Immediately following the departure of the judge from the court, Conrad J. Herzig, auto sales manager and Juror No. 5, stepped into the box and waved over to Roberts.

"Mr. Roberts," he said, "some of my fellow jurors desire me to speak to you. We regret this situation exceedingly and we feel that unfairly we have been placed under a cloud in a manner over which we had no control."

"Mr. Herzig," replied Roberts, "may I say to you that this government regards you of the 12 jurors as being of the very highest type. We regret exceedingly this unfortunate occurrence, but it could not be helped. You know yourself that had you suddenly become aware that you were under constant surveillance, you immediately would have thought the United States government didn't trust you, and it would have reacted in your mind against us."

"I might add the government hasn't spent a plugged nickel in such work. I thank you and I am sorry."

The defense attorneys declined to comment in the courtroom.

"Our position is plainly stated in the record of the session in Justice Siddons' chambers," said Mr. W. L. Litchell, chief of defense counsel. "We favor the dismissal of the jury in the view of the wide publicity given these charges."

Other members of the jury declared Kidwell had made no report to influence them while they were confined to the jury room. They said that Kidwell hadn't even taken part in their deliberations.

Seeks Another Date

Mrs. Fall, wife of the defendant, and their two daughters were here in the court room as the material was ordered. She placed a hand on her husband's arm and whispered in his ear. Fall came slowly, picked up his black hat and started away. Mrs. Fall took his arm.

"Hurry you anything to say?" he was asked.

"No, not now," said Fall in low tones, while Mrs. Fall merely nodded.

Owen J. Roberts announced later that he would ask the court to set a new trial for Fall and Sinclair, for early in January. Roberts intended to confer with the court later in the day about a definite date.

OFFICIALS PLEASED WITH NEW PUMPER

Demonstration of Equipment Proves Satisfactory; Deputy Marshal Sees Test

For Fred McFarland and other city officials including Mayor Earl Hazen, Deputy Mayor William Strayer, and several members of city council, the demonstration of the new pumper which was given by the fire department yesterday afternoon.

The new pumper was demonstrated by Charles McFarland, deputy state fire marshal, representing the National Board of Fire Underwriters, and Chief William Remy, of Marion, who was accompanied by a representative of the fire department.

The pumper which arrived here yesterday morning was given its first test at the Marion fire station. The test was explained by the fire department and the new six-inch hose was shown to be able to supply water in sufficient quantities to meet the demand.

Three Lines Laid
Three lines of three-inch hose were connected to the pumper which in turn was connected with a six-inch hose to the hydrant. Although nearly 800 gallons of water were drawn from the hydrant each minute, the pressure was reduced to slightly less than four pounds.

This was regarded as very satisfactory by the chief who said that the smaller hydrants which are being replaced by the six-inch hydrants would have been reduced to zero pressure as the pipe would not be of a size to permit a sufficient volume of water to pass.

The pumper was then taken to Crystal Lake park for the volume test. The machine was run out onto a platform over the lake and the six-inch hose dropped into the water. Three lines of three-inch hose were then connected with the pumper and the three connected by means of a three-way connection, with a six-inch hose at the nozzle.

Try Different Nozzles
A two-inch nozzle was first used and with 70 pound pressure at the nozzle, the pumper delivered 1,000 gallons of water a minute. A one and three-quarters inch nozzle was then attached and with a pressure of 100 pounds at the nozzle the pumper delivered 900 gallons of water a minute. A one and one-half inch nozzle was next tried and 850 gallons of water were delivered with a pressure of 125 pounds.

While not so spectacular as the test of S. Main-st when the three lines of hose delivered a deluge of water that resembled a miniature Niagara, the tests at the park were regarded by fire department officials as a very satisfactory exhibition of the ability of the new machine.

The new pumper will be kept at the central station for several days before being taken to the No. 2 station on W. Center-st where it will replace the machine now in use there.

Ask Your Doctor About Cascara

What do YOU do when the bowels need a little assistance? If you clearup the condition with some laxative made with CASCARA, there is nothing better for the system—for the blood.

But if you don't KNOW the laxative you have learned to depend on is of harmless cascara, here's some truly valuable advice:

The bark of a tree called cascara is the most marvelous conditioner mankind has yet found. It stimulates the bowels' muscular action, but does NOT weaken. A violent laxative forms the laxative HABIT. You always need more on the morrow. With cascara, you don't. Its gentle influence carries on sometimes for days. With less and less need of any aid, as time goes on. So, the very next time you feel sluggish, take only a candy cascara. Delectable to the taste, sweet and acceptable to any stomach, and just as efficient as the powerful purges that fairly paralyze the peristaltic walls of one's intestines. The only habit you'll get from cascara is the one of going weeks and months without ANY help of the kind. And when you do invoke their aid again, the same small dose suffices. Any doctor can tell you about cascara; and any druggist has the candy cascara.—Adv.

D. R. AND MRS. D. W. BRICKLEY were hosts at an evening of bridge last night at their home, 357 Mt. Vernon av. Six tables were arranged for cards.

At the regular meeting of the federation last night in the ballroom of Hotel Harding, Mrs. Biffitt, who is a member of the Research Club, recently returned from a world cruise. Preceding the talk, Miss Frances Irwin sang two pleasing numbers, "Sundays and Sunsets," and "Sleepy Hollow Tune." Kountz, accompanied at the piano by Miss Wanda McMahon. Miss McMahon concluded the program hour with a delightful piano solo, "Waltz," Rachmaninoff.

During a short business session which preceded the program hour it was voted to raise the federation dues to 50 cents per capita. It is only an unlighted woman who still suffers painful periods. The old-fashioned girl who must "keep off her feet" has not learned of Midol. Take a tiny tablet of Midol—and forget the time of month. Midol is not a narcotic. It does not interfere with the normal, necessary process of menstruation. But it stops the pain. It brings complete ease in five to seven minutes. And the woman who anticipates her time and takes Midol beforehand will have no pain at all. Midol is the work of specialists. It is effective no matter how hard a time you're always had. Try it! All drug stores, in a slim aluminum case to tuck in purse, for fifty cents.—Ad.

New Creme Rouge
Lasts All Day

One application of Carner, the new French non-oily Creme Rouge, lasts all day, for it is waterproof and perspiration proof. A small amount is applied with a gentle rotating motion until the cream is absorbed. Leaves no trace of oil or pigment on the skin. Won't come off with plain water, but is readily removable with soap or cold cream. Your Marion drugist has it.—Ad.

Ring Styles
Old Axom
Grammar

BY EUNA S. DUTTON

THERE was a time when one could permit his gaze to wander surreptitiously to the third finger of the left hand of most any married woman and make a pretty good guess just what vintage of bride she was, but not so these days. In many instances mother's and daughter's wedding rings are identical, because mother believes in keeping abreast of the times and when she discarded buckram facings and iron bound sustainers her next step was to rebuild, resurface and decorate the gold band that binds. The original metal still remains in the ring, which should be a soothing group to the feelings of those who for sentimental reasons, hate to have the old circle done over, and they are a lot prettier. Platinum and white gold have the call today and it's only once in a great while the jeweler has a request for a gold wedding ring. The small gold bands of grandmother's day, corresponding in width to the circle of the present day, was an attractive affair and in the days when we knew grandma the ring seemed to fit in perfectly with her cap and shoulder shawl. But in between that day and this some big hearted bridegroom evidently was possessed with a desire to materially prove the greatness of his affection and kept the goldsmith busy fashioning those giant-sized rings reaching from knuckle to knuckle which adorned the finger of the apple of his eye.

THE old axiom of "keep an article seven years" or is it 17, "and you will have it for it again," has added another string to its pudding. The old stereoscope with its dozens of views which used to grace the parlor stand or occupy a place of honor in a basket near the table, has come into its own again and is indispensable as an aid in class room study. If you have one in the attic, haul it down and dust it off and see if it affords the whole evening's entertainment it used to.

IF you are one of the p. w. g. w. who have been battling the wall for for those many moons, and feel the need of some diversion with a real kick in it join the Business Woman's Club Class in Business English. You may be an alpha stenog, can sell icecream cones to an Eskimo and get by without the king getting sore at you for butchering his English, but when it comes to running your brain to the next time, I was fairly bursting to ask the "teacher" if they still used diagramming in school now but fearing even the word was obsolete, desisted.

GRAY AND BLACK

Coats this season are affecting drapery of a kind and various other embellishments. The truly modish coat, however, still maintains simple lines and trimming, depending on the richness of its fabrics and its tailoring for its distinction.

Such a garment is illustrated. It is fashioned of gray velvet combined with black seal. Miss Dorothy Sebastian is the model.

The hat worn with this coat carries out the color ensemble, being gray felt and black velvet.

Meditations

OF A Married
Woman

BY HELEN ROWLAND

LIGHTING THE FLAME OF LOVE
CONSIDER my maxims and heed my wisdom, oh my Daughter.

For, lo, I have known one man well, and many men a little; and they are unto me, more simple than words of one syllable, and more easily read than the electric sign upon Main Street. Yet, where I have been STUNG, they mayest walk in safety.

I charge thee, seek not to light the flame in a man's heart by flinging kerosene upon it but let the fire of love burn SLOWLY for the end thereof is ashes.

Go to, Love is not like unto a bolt-cast which burneth out within the hour; but like unto a rice pudding which simmereth long over a light flame. And a wise damsel knoweth when it is done; but a foolish damsel continueth to pile on the fuel and stir up the fire until it is BURNED OUT.

Behold, when a man first kisseth a damsel, her thoughts leap unto the altar; she sigheth for an arroyal and a solitaire and yearneth to "settle things."

Yet, whether it be love or a question, or champion or a quarrel, that which is "settled" is FINISHED in a man's eyes.

Verily, when the uncertainty passeth and the DOUBT goeth out of love, it becometh as wine wherefrom the fizz and the sparkle have departed; exceeding flat.

Behold, after the third kiss, a damsel is like unto a cross-word puzzle that hath been solved; a novel, the last chapter of which hath been read in advance!

But, a WIFE is like unto a book that hath been read from the beginning unto the end. She holdeth NO surprises. For, how can a man find novelty in a woman when he knoweth the ingredients of her make-up, the source of her beauty, and all the workings of her mind?

How shall he be sentimental concerning the waves of her hair when he hath paid the bill for her "permanent"? How shall he be thrilled by her "sublime fragrance" when he knoweth the exact price of her sachet and her bath-salts?

Go to, my Daughter. Seek not to hasten a man's love; for forced fruit lacketh flavor; but the sweet melon ripeneth slowly in the sun. And the tenderest kiss is the one that hath not YET been taken.

Verily, verily, a man's love is not a "continuity" but a dazzling "revelation" with a constant change of words, music and scenery.

Blessed is the woman that knoweth when the play is OVER; for she shall "wake up" in time, and depart before the lights are out!

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN," "MONEY," "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL," etc.

Read This First:

SALLY JEROME, pretty and vivacious, is the mainstay of her family. She is the daughter of a doctor, who has been in the business for many years. She is a nurse, and her work is her life. She is a good girl, and her family is proud of her. She is a good girl, and her family is proud of her.

Tell us, dining room ever since she could remember. She knew that her aunt recognized them, too, but was going to pretend that she did not. "You've made a mistake!" she snapped, glaring at the two men before her. "I'm not expecting any furniture here. You pack all that stuff up and take it right back where it came from!" Helplessly the two movers looked at each other. One of them scratched his head, glanced at Aunt Emily, and then pulled a slip of paper from his pocket. "Is your name Jerome?" he asked. Aunt Emily, who gave a short nod as if her head had been pulled up and down by unseen strings. "Well, then, this is the right place, lady," he said, still scratching his head. "Our orders were to bring all this here." He raised his head and his face brightened as a taxicab came tearing into the driveway. "Here's the lady that sent it out, now!"

Mrs. Jerome got slowly and awkwardly from the cab, her skirt ballooning out in the April wind, her hat on one side, and her face covered with a broad smile. The smile faded slowly as she saw the look in Aunt Emily's eyes. "Why—why?" she faltered weakly. "I've done something I shouldn't have done!" Her large, plump hands were clasped in front of her. "Aunt Emily's answer glistened through her teeth. "Don't talk like a fool, Clara Margaret! You're not such a fool that you've forgotten that I told you you could NOT come here to live! Now, what do you mean by sending all this truck out here to me? What do you mean by it?"

Mrs. Jerome, who could cry as easily as she could turn on a water faucet, began to cry now. Great tears began to brim over from her eyes and roll down her fat cheeks. Everything about her was large—even her tears. "I'm sure I misunderstood you," she went. "I thought you wouldn't mind having me live in three or four of those great big rooms upstairs. You remember I spoke to you about it, Emily!"

Aunt Emily gave a short laugh as she remembered what she had said. "You couldn't come!" she told you wouldn't have you—and I would!"

Mrs. Jerome dropped with a thud down upon the steps that led to the porch and buried her face in her hands. "Oh, what'll I do?" she moaned. "Here I've given up the flat and the new people are moving in tomorrow! I haven't any place to go! No roof over my head, if you turn me out now—!" Her sentence broke up in a volley of sobs.

Aunt Emily shot a look at Sally—a look that said things that she was too much of a lady to say aloud. "Then she spoke tersely to the two movers: "Carry the stuff upstairs!"

She stalked ahead of them into the house, and Sally followed her. In silence they began to empty the three big bedrooms on the sunny side of the house.

"Put it all in the trunk room, Sally," she said, when all the furniture was piled in the big square hall. Her voice was more like a growl than anything else.

"I could just shake that mother of yours!" she declared, still white with rage, and she and Sally piled chairs upon rolled-up mattresses and covered them with old sheets. "She knew perfectly well that she wasn't to come here! But she just made up her mind that she would, so she gave up her flat and came! She makes me think of a river in flood time—overflowing into the house and doing all the mischief she can. Where do you suppose she is now? She ought to be up here, helping us!"

Sally ran downstairs to find her mother. She found her in the pantry, quietly eating a large slice of blueberry pie, while tears ran down her cheeks and into her mouth. On the shelf beside her lay her handbag and a new library book.

"I never was made to feel that I wasn't wanted in a place before in my life," she sobbed brokenly, as she popped the last of the pie into her mouth. "You'd think we hadn't any right to live in this house to hear Emily talk! It's my house—just as much as it's hers!"

"Sally knew that this was not the case. Aunt Emily had paid off two mortgages on the place years before, when it had been willed to her by her father.

She knew, moreover, that her mother knew it, too. But sometimes Mrs. Jerome forgot things, just for the sake of argument.

That night the family table was set for six people instead of just Sally and Aunt Emily.

"It's the first square meal I've had since I was here the last time," young Jean said with appreciation, as he consumed great quantities of fried chicken and those string potatoes, confection salad, hot rolls, and Daisy's paste.

"Better enjoy it while you're got it, Beau," Aunt Emily answered him dachy. "You aren't going to get meals like this every night, unless you pay me a lot more board than you ever paid Sally. You're going to get just what you pay for here, and not one thing more!"

Mrs. Jerome's face fell. It was plain that she had been counting upon chicken dinners.

Sally's heart went out to her. She seemed so pathetic, sitting there with her red swollen eyes fixed on her plate, and her breast heaving under its blouse of soiled silk. Her clothes had not been fresh and spotless since Sally had left.

Sally had always devoted Saturday nights to cleaning and pressing and mending the clothes of the whole family.

"Don't mind what Aunt Em says. Mother," she told Mrs. Jerome late that night as she helped her to undress in the big front bedroom where a wood fire scented and warmed the air. "She's upset and nervous because we aren't doing very well right now. And I'll see that you get a chicken dinner every now and then."

She kissed her mother and held her tight. She felt, somehow, that she never ought to have left her mother alone in the flat, with no one but Mabel and Millie to look after her.

Mrs. Jerome thought so, too. "You shouldn't have come out here, Sally," she wailed, her tears dampening Sally's shoulder. "You sacrificed me and my comfort to your own selfish ambition! You didn't care what became of me. You didn't care!"

Sally groaned inwardly. "I came because I thought I could make some extra money—for you, Mother," she said sincerely. "And you know I came home every day and did all I could. But it's all over now, so stop crying and hop into bed."

Mrs. Jerome couldn't hop into bed or anywhere else. But she fell into it heavily and reached for her new book—"The Murder of Shenson."

"It's a wonderful detective story," she purred, suddenly contented as she read and received her. "Bring me a glass of warm milk, Sally. This seems like old times."

Downstairs in the kitchen, Aunt Em was washing dishes with a rattling bang. "I could just bite a piece out of a plate, I'm so angry!" she said when Sally came down to help her. "Now, I'm not going to have those people downstairs in this house! They can stay up where they belong or they can get out!"

It was Sally's unpleasant duty to give this message to her family. However, they paid no attention to it. In a week's time they were all over the house, whenever they pleased.

It was late one Sunday afternoon in early May. A golden afternoon, filled with pale sunlight and the smell of lilacs outside Aunt Emily's dining room window.

In a new lilac-colored dress that she had made with her own hands, Sally was filling salt cellars at one of the tiny tables, when she heard the rush of an automobile in the driveway.

A minute later steps came across the wide hall, and she glanced up from her work. Her blue eyes woke to fire as she saw the tall, dark, good-looking man who stood on the threshold smiling down at her.

Her heart quivered, gave a great throb, and then seemed to stand quite still in her body. "Hello!" she said sharply to herself, and stood up.

One of her chief charms, came to her rescue now. It was a wonderful smile—that smile of Sally's. It had covered grief and unhappiness for her many a time, just as now it hid her embarrassment and overwhelming excitement. It was a hard-working smile.

She went forward with all the ease in the world and held out her little hand to him. "How nice to see you!" she cried in just the right tone of welcome.

"My, but I'm doing this well!" she told herself proudly, as she shook his hand. "I'll call Millie," she said in the most ordinary tone. "Won't you sit down?"

"I will," he answered, and did. "But I came to see you." Sally was thunderstruck. Her color deepened in her cheeks, and her eyes darkened and widened with the excitement that burned within her. "To see her! He had come to see her! Of all things—"

"Me?" she asked on an upward note. John Nye nodded, gazing around the empty room. "I've your business?"

Sally's lips, so soft and delicate as flower petals, quivered a little. "Prettily well," she stammered. She was always ill at ease when she was with him.

Today it was hard for her to keep her mind on what she was saying. She kept looking at him—it was so good to see him again. His fine eyes, his ready smile, and the straight, tall body that seemed fairly to throb with the power that was in it. . . . How, she asked herself, could Millie look at a man like Dory Davidson when she could have this man! This man who was like a Greek athlete carved out of marble by "The Lark" coolness down the road is going fast, I notice," he said. "And Millie told me you and your aunt were getting pretty well discouraged here. I thought maybe you'd be selling out and looking around for another office position."

Sally's bright-blue eyes swept the yard where only his brown automobile stood. She knew that there were probably 50 automobiles gathered around "The Lark" down the road, like bees around a hive.

"We're getting along beautifully," she lied, superbly and proudly. "We're not going to sell out." That much was true, anyway. They were not going to sell out their business. There was very little business to sell out, or to do anything with, as a matter of fact.

Jubilee's Pardner A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

The next thing to happen will be Thanksgiving. I asked my father this morning when I had let Jubilee down and had fed my face if we were going to have a turkey, and my mother said of course we were, because a turkey is the sign we are thankful. My father said if he knew how he was going to pay for it he would be thankful. Then my grandfather told him to cheer up that he would provide the turkey. I asked him if he meant me, paying for it, and he laughed and said it did with some people but it really meant that he would pay for it. ## Love's Embers

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Adieu

I COULD have shaken Mary Harrison cheerfully when I saw Noel Veritron's eyes as he looked at me that night and went with his father to the waiting limousine. I knew that the older Veritron's unexpected and unexpected invitation to his son to join him at the hotel, an action marking the end of years of estrangement—had raised the young violinist to an upper heaven of happiness. But Mary's unmistakable frowning of him and her absorption in young Mr. George Logan Jackson, had effectively robbed him of elation, even though his attention to Eleanor Lincoln had told me that he did not intend to use his sleeve for a heart pocket any longer.

But he could not disguise the misery in his eyes, though his manner was debonair, careless, and, indeed, much lighter than usual. Mary, evidently piqued a bit by his farewell to Eleanor Lincoln, which she had seen, gave him no word beyond a careless "So long, Noel!" to which the boy returned a perfunctory, although more courteous answer. And then the two were being driven swiftly away, and Dicky, Lillian, Mary and I were left on the veranda.

"It is lovely a right to go in," Lillian said. "But I should only fall asleep if I stayed out, so I'm going upstairs. How about you, Maude?"

"I couldn't see them in another minute," she said smiling, "for my eyes would be closed tight. So I shall stroll docilely by your side. But that leaves me alone, Uncle Dicky," she said, turning to the relative whom she dearly loved, and who was lighting his pipe in evident preparation for a smoke up on the veranda.

"Please don't think me ungracious, dear," he told her, with a smile that I knew had cost him an effort, "but I shall be glad to be alone. I have some things to think out."

The good-night to Lillian and me was just that—two syllables which barely escaped utterance, and as I went up stairs with Lillian and Mary I had a little premonition that the things which Dicky meant to "think out" concerned me, and that a more or less unpleasant interview awaited me before Dicky's return to the city.

There is one advantage in holding a recent resentment against a person once loved. One does not dread an unpleasant interview with the object of one's dislike.

"Gas Pressure from a Sour, Acid, Upset Stomach is not only highly uncomfortable, but some day may prove fatal! When your meals are followed by bloating, a feeling of fullness and pains around the Heart—you may be sure that STOMACH GAS is pushing and crowding upwards. That's the reason for the shortness of breath and sharp, shooting pains."

To quickly banish this Gas, neutralize the acidity and cleanse and sweeten the stomach—nothing is better than the simple use of Bismarck's Magnesia (powder or tablets), which gives almost instant relief. Pleasant, harmless and inexpensive. Bismarck's Magnesia has been used and recommended by Doctors and Druggists for more than fifteen years. Any good druggist can supply you—try it today!—Adv.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist—Adv.

one's rancor, and I was able to put it out of my mind and give heed to Mary's tug at my gown, which told me that she could not wait longer to hear the time of Philip Veritron's forthcoming interview with her.

"Will you help me off with my gown, Mary?" I asked as we reached the top of the stairs, and Lillian, with a needed good-night that did not derive me, moved on to her own room. I knew that she would come back to my room when she was sure that Mary had gone to her own bed, and that there would be no interruptions to the questions I guessed she meant to put to me.

learned through their own experience the merit of this dependable medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

"I had been in bad condition for three months. I could not do my work. One day I read what your medicine had done and just had a feeling that it would help me, so I sent and got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had only taken half a bottle when I got up and started to do my work. It gave me an appetite, and helped me wonderfully. I can't praise this medicine highly enough. I surely will advise all women and girls to take it, and they don't have to use rouge to look healthy. My two daughters are taking it now and one is also using the Sanative Wash. I am willing to have you use this testimonial and I will answer letters from women asking about the medicine."—Mrs. HARVEY TUCKER, R. R. No. 3, Shelbyville, Indiana.

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books you give away and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel better and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I feel like a different person. At anytime that I don't feel good, I take the Vegetable Compound again, as I always keep a bottle on hand. You may use this letter for every word is true. I will answer every letter sent to me."—Mrs. JENNY BOLLMAN, 611-11th St., Union City, N. J.

Varsity Looks Sluggish In Second Practice of Week; Reserves Look Good

With Two Exceptions Varsity Line Fails To Take Bucyrus Defeat Seriously; Two Undeclared Teams Meet on Armistice Day

By TOM BUCHANAN
Sports Editor of The Star

NOVEMBER the month when most anything happens in football seems to have been unusually quiet in the Red and Black line on that day the team met for the first practice of the season at the hands of the Bucyrus defense.

If November weather continues in the Harding camp it looks like tough sledding ahead and the weather didn't clear a bit last night on the practice field. The slough that hit the team last weekend didn't show any prospect of breaking into a real trend that might put the Red and Black back in the league race.

No Snap, No Pop

Lack of fight was very noticeable last night as the team took the field for the second practice session since Saturday's debacle. With the possible exception of the backfield, and two positions on the line the Varsity outfit was sluggish and gave no indication that the Bucyrus defeat was being taken seriously. And from all indications the Red and Black will have to develop a November blizzard to give the championship match of the Big Red of Mansfield when it comes here Saturday.

The gridders looked a little better in actual scrimmage than in the preliminary drill however and the coaches here that to be thankful for nothing else.

While Coach Bohrer has made no intimation of a shift in the lineup for next Saturday, local fans need not be greatly surprised if they see a whole lot of reserves moved up to the first string and as many first stringers moved back. The reserves last night were taking football seriously and were getting plenty of fight and snap in the scrimmage.

ing two touchdowns against the Harding varsity the Bucyrus outfit was held for down on the Red and Black three-yard line by the reserves.

According to word from the Big Red's home town the team already has the hunting hanging from the schoolhouse bell.

The one obstacle in the path of the Mansfield outfit, according to followers of the Big Red, is Shelby, also undefeated. Shelby and Mansfield play on the afternoon of Armistice Day.

BILLY WALLACE WINS FROM TOMMY HERMAN

Winner To Fight McLarnin in Madison Square Garden Nov. 25

Cleveland, Nov. 2.—Billy Wallace, (122) one of the leading contenders for the lightweight crown held by Sammie Mandell, was too good for Tommy Herman, of Philadelphia, (130) here last night and proved it by knocking Herman out in the eighth round of a scheduled 12 round bout.

Herman took a count of nine in the third round and again in the eighth, leading to the knockout. He was outclassed in every stage of the game by the swift, hard-hitting Wallace, who, although conceding four pounds in weight, held the Philadelphia at his mercy throughout.

Wallace is scheduled to fight Jimmy McLarnin in Madison Square Garden Nov. 25.

WOOSTER HAS TOUGH TASK FOR SATURDAY

Presbyterian's Passing Attack Doesn't Meet Approval of Boles

Wooster, Nov. 2.—Wooster plays Reserve at Cleveland Saturday and Wooster's chances for a victory hang largely on how well Captain Pete Blough and his teammates can stop Justin Platz, speedy Reserve backfielder. For the most part his week, Coach L. C. Boles plans to play in most of his time working out a defense that will be able to cope with the Reserve offense.

In the last two games Reserve has piled up twenty points. Running from the famous Jones unbalanced formation, Reserve has shown ability to hit both the light and heavy sides of center with equal ability. With Platz carrying the ball, Reserve has been marching rough shod over all their conference foes.

Since Wooster's passing attack has failed to come up to standard Boles will drill his passers and receivers on some new pass plays this week. This part of Wooster's play has been a sad failure to date according to the Wooster mentor.

The game will be the Migration game and a large delegation of Wooster students and fans, headed by the college band, will trek to Cleveland for the week-end.

The next $100,000 Los Angeles open golf tournament, to take place during early January, is expected to set a new high record for such competitions in Southern California. A special effort will be made to induce more amateurs to take part in the play.

The first fight for the American heavyweight championship took place in 1916 between Jacob Hyer and Tom Heasley. Hyer was the winner.

16 Best Golfers In Play

Second Round Starts Today; Four Leaders Eliminated

Indian, Tex., Nov. 2.—Sixteen of the nation's leading professional golfers will today begin the second round of the first two of the beautiful Cedar Creek course here today to compete in the second round of the National Professional golf tournament.

Four Big Ones Out

Four prominent names are missing from the list of 16 eligible to continue play for the title won for the fourth consecutive time by Walter Hagen.

The two Scott, Bobby Cruikshank, is one of the quarter, having been eliminated yesterday by Arthur Hanes, of New York. George Sargent, of form that was a head of 1 up to the wind, Wild Bird McKelton of Chicago, lost to Willie Klein, of East Ellington, N. Y., and Johnny Farrell beat before the gallant fight of the National open champion Tommy Armour.

The fourth big run eliminated was Albert Klotz, who had Hagen through the first 15 holes of qualifying play and finished with a 114. He went out 12 and 11, in the most crushing reverse of the day at the hands of Monte Dutra, Tacoma.

The man with the ice cold nerve, Walter Hagen, needed all that to survive Tuesday. He adjourned for lunch four down and didn't catch up with Jack Farrell until the twentieth hole, finally winning out 2 and 2 in a Garri-son finish that saw Farrell crack.

Harry, impressive winner yesterday, and his match today with Al Espinosa, one of the outstanding features of the round.

Today's pairings to go to the thirty-seventh hole to win his match from Jack Curley, and then he was lucky, as Curley missed a victory on the thirty-sixth by running the cup on a five footer. Gene will vie with Ed Dudley today.

Today's pairings for the second round of play follow:
Tommy Armour, Washington, D. C., vs. Tom Harmon, Yorkers, N. Y.
Walter Hagen, Pasadena, Fla., vs. Anthony Munro, N. Y.
Monte Dutra, Tacoma, Wash., vs. Charles guest, Hollywood, Calif.
Al Espinosa, Chicago, vs. Harry George, Los Angeles, Calif.
Ed Dudley, Van Nuys, Calif., vs. Gene Sarazen.

William Kline, East Williston, N. Y., vs. Joe Turnesa, New York.
John Golden, Paterson, N. J., vs. Harold Lutz, Raleigh, N. C.
Francis Gallet, Wauwatosa, Wis., vs. Ralph Beach, Bethesda, Md.

WANTS GAME

National Semi-Pro Basketball Champs Want Games With Local Teams

The Chicago Big Five basketball team would like to book a Marion team for an early season game. The team claims the national semi-pro championship. In 1933-34 the same outfit on the American amateur title and the year following the national intercollegiate title for the Notre Dame University. The team is managed by Leonard Spangler, P. O. Box 693, East Chicago, Ind.

One of the interested spectators at the World Series games in Pittsburgh was the veteran "Honus" Wagner, who in his day had few equals as a baseball player.

The World Series has gone its full quota of seven games to a decision only five times in the 22 years that it has been under the rules of the National Commission.

The home run is demanded by the baseball fans nowadays, which is the reason why the management of the Boston Braves is putting 3,500 additional seats in the outfield. Because of the wide-open spaces at Braves Field the number of home runs scored there has been far below that at any of the other major league parks. By filling in the vacant space with seats the dimensions of the playing field will be reduced to that of the average park. It is hoped that the number of home runs, and incidentally the attendance, may be increased by the change.

BAN'S SUCCESSOR?

William Harbridge has been named as a possible successor to Ban Johnson as president of the American League.

Directors of the American League will meet today to name the new president.

VOLLEYBALL LEAGUE IN ACTION TONIGHT

Drawing Made by Team Captains Last Night

Drawings for the City Volleyball League to play on the Y. M. C. A. floors were made last night. The first games will be played today.

Tonight at 8:20 o'clock the Tobin team will play the White team on the upper floor, while the Cunningham team will take on the Sage outfit on the lower floor. A half hour later Teitelbaum's team will play Brown's on the upper floor and Clark's will meet Hildebrand's on the lower.

Each game will continue for a half hour, the play beginning at 8:20 o'clock. New men brought in by the team captains are entitled to play that team.

The teams will be known by their captain's name and are as follows:

Captain Tobin, Verburg, Barnhart, Bauer, Burkhardt, Key, Captain White, Coulter, Bachman, McFerrer, Frank, Kette, Morrison, Captain Teitelbaum, Rice, Stanz, O'Brien, Wadsworth and Kleinmiller, Captain Brown, Barrett, Vaughn, Irvin, Wyllie and Rhu; Captain Cunningham, Torrance, Moore, Dr. Ramroth, V. C. Smith and Van Deine; Captain Sage, Dr. Murphy, Faher, M. L. McDaniel, Swink and Berg; Captain Clark, Burton, A. W. Kette, Bunnaginner, Klingel and Kerr; Captain Hildebrand, Hector Young, Dr. Brady, Carroll Kerr, Gillis, Smith and Strelitz.

Putting out a modern successful football team these days entails as large an outlay of capital as does the establishment of a business.

Two Games in Mid-West Hold Grid Spotlight; Buckeyes Go To Princeton

Notre Dame, Minnesota and Chicago, Michigan Are Headliners; Irish Haven't Been Beaten at Home for 21 Years; Ohio Has Chance

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Notre Dame's battle with Minnesota and Michigan's resumption of football warfare with Chicago's maroons appears to have football fans of the middle west pretty well steamed up for the approaching Saturday's entertainment.

There will be other interesting contests, of course, but the boys and girls seem to tender the palm to the exciting combats listed above.

Many, many years ago the annual Chicago-Michigan games were rated with the classics of the country. No schools showed more rivalry nor was football played more viciously than the Wolverine and the Maroon demonstrated it.

Way back in 1905 these mighty teams played a game for the championship of the west. That was one of Michigan's famous point a minute teams. It had Willie Heston, the Hammonds and other great stars of the day. Chicago had Ekersall, Melis, De Tray, Catlin and such luminaries.

Chicago Wins by Safety

Well, Chicago won, 2 to 0, when a Michigan player was nailed behind his goal line for a safety. This aroused the Michigan authorities to such a bitter frame of mind that they canceled all athletic relations with Stagg's institution.

In 1915, which was one of the War years, the schools agreed to play a sample game but the Big Ten conference teams were made up largely of students in training so the affair didn't make much difference either way. The schools played one again—in 1920, but in the last seven years they have been unable to get together. You can imagine, then, what a football battle is likely to result when these two powerful outfits of 1927 meet with the feeling that has been gathering through the years.

The game at South Bend, Ind., will be no less interesting and from a national football standpoint it is more important because neither team has been beaten this season.

Notre Dame will hold a peculiar advantage in this meeting because the Irish have not been beaten in 21 years on their own field. In fact it is tradition that an N. D. eleven can't be beaten there. The situation is something akin to that of the baseball pitcher who usually has little else to do but toss his glove into the pitcher's box to beat certain ball teams.

It can be figured, however, that this bit of history and whatever effect it may have on the Gophers, is about the only edge that the deposters figure in favor of the Irish. The Gophers have a crashing outfit while Buckeye will rely on end slants and the aerial game. In the latter department the Notre Dame boys stand as past masters.

Ohio goes East

The war game on the conference which may have a bearing on the Big Ten lead is the Illinois-Iowa game. The Illini hasn't been beaten by a conference team this season and although the Hawkeyes have dropped a couple of ball games they are still dangerous enough to pull an upset.

ATHLETIC OFFICIALS SILENT ON ACTION OF TOLEDO ALUMNI

Association Demands Removal of Coach Wilce in Closed Session

Columbus, Nov. 2.—Athletic officials of Ohio State University can only remain silent on the action of the Toledo Alumni Association, which adopted a resolution demanding the immediate removal of Dr. John W. Wilce, head coach of the varsity football team.

Dr. Wilce was hastily preparing to leave for the trip east to meet President Hoover on Saturday, and other University authorities declined to discuss the resolution.

The resolution, according to information here, was adopted in a closed session of the Toledo Alumni meeting last night.

Charlie Paddock Will Again Face Competition on Indoor Track

New York, Nov. 2.—New York Athletic Club were competing today for the prize of securing a Paddock-McAllister indoor race, following Charlie Paddock's announcement that he is open to indoor competition for the first time in many years.

For his 12 indoor defeats Paddock declared he was through with this line of running. Today, however, he asserted that he was out to take a 100-meter and 150-yard titles from his present holder, Bob McAllister, the "Flying Cop." Several of the local clubs are hard at it to secure matches.

Mickey Walker Knocks Out Mike McTigue In Two Minutes

Speed of Youth Wins Over Fighting Heart of Veteran In Grueling Chicago Bout

Old Man Went Down Four Times. Only To Come Back for More; Out Five Minutes After Last Blow; Was Scheduled for 10 Rounds

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Mickey Walker, 24, a further opposition to Mike McTigue, 35, in his last fight, was a heavy favorite. He was a light heavyweight, but he was a much better fighter than he was a boxer. He was a much better fighter than he was a boxer. He was a much better fighter than he was a boxer.

Two Minutes
The main event in the boxing world, was the fight between Mickey Walker and Mike McTigue. It was a fight that was expected to be a long one, but it was not. It was a fight that was expected to be a long one, but it was not.

In the semi-swinging, started after the McTigue-Walker affair, Rubeaux Sagor, the Cuban light heavyweight, scored his usual knockout, this time over Benny Ross of Buffalo. It was the dusky Cuban's third knockout here in as many starts.

The show drew around $8000 customers and would probably have been a sellout if it hadn't rained. The gate receipts were approximately $15,000.

WALSH AIRS ADENOIDS ON GOOD, BAD, INDIFFERENT FOOTBALL TEAMS

BY DAVID J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Just for the sake of talking through his adenoids, the writer would like to declare himself today against the current system of rating football teams by the fact that they have or have not won all games on a schedule that may include very harrowing contests with Upsilon Gamma and the Institute for the Preservation of Ideals. There are some fifteen colleges that remain unbeaten for the 1927 season to date and at least six of them are so much eye wash as far as National ranking is concerned while the status of five more is at least open to reasonable doubt.

Yale has committed the heinous sin of losing a football game this season; yet Yale, judged on its record, belongs absolutely. In fact, for all anyone knows, the Blue may be the greatest team in the country. Anyhow, win, lose or draw, I see fit to place Yale in my list of preferred teams, chosen without regard for their winning percentages.

The list follows:
Notre Dame, an inevitable choice; Penn State, beaten by Bucknell which was beaten 34 points by the Army; Southern California, also inevitable; Minnesota, Yale, Southern Methodist, Illinois and Georgia.

Only two outfits in the list, Notre Dame and Georgia, have remained unbeaten and untied; three others have tie scores against their records and two have suffered actual defeats. Yet, to me, they constitute the stand-out teams at this time because they have stepped out with the big timers without losing.

However, the drafting of any preferred list is a dangerous thing because the odds are against anyone being able to mention all the deserving entries and still keep the list within the limits of Webster's abridged edition. Nebraska, for example, probably belongs merely on the face of its record. It blew a one-point defeat to Missouri, which really shouldn't mean much. But it does.

For one thing, Missouri had 32 points scored against it by Southern Methodist, which also beat Texas, which previously had taken Vanderbilt. Still, as in the case of Yale, we are trying to live in the present and right at the moment there seems to be slight doubt that Nebraska and Missouri are first class football teams, nationally speaking. They probably rate themselves beyond Iowa State, which tied Illinois early in the year, and altogether they make the Big Ten Conference look none too good with Missouri's rather generous victory over Northwestern.

Still, judged on the records, one can hardly place Nebraska, Missouri and Southern Methodist in the same list, while Illinois' surprise victory over a real good Michigan outfit almost automatically lets the Illini in for the time being.

Secondary list
The secondary list, therefore, might include the following teams, almost any one of which could be advanced to the front rank without further notice:

Stanford, Missouri, Nebraska, Michigan, Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson, Princeton, Washington, Chicago and Tennessee.

At least four of these teams, Pittsburgh, W. and J., Princeton and Tennessee have suffered neither defeat nor tie this year. But what of it? Pittsburgh's record shows a series of close country runs against Thiel, Grove City, West Virginia, Drake, Carnegie Tech and Allegheny. It is unfortunate for Pitt that West Virginia, Drake and Tech had to have weak teams at one end of the game, time but the point is that decisions over such teams mean no more than a punch in the nose from a clown.

Washington and Jefferson has played about the same type of schedule to date and Princeton's only virtue so far is a decision over Cornell. As for Tennessee, insufficient data on its statistical comment, while New York University hardly can hope to get a ranking on the kind of schedule it has played so far.

I might add that Rochester, Tufts, George Washington, Geneva and Springfield also are among the unbeaten eleven. However, they are the kind you can throw right out like a hot ball.

Billiard Match Enters Fifth Week Today

New York, Nov. 2.—Willie Hoppe, entering on the fifth week of his three cushion billiard match with champion Otto Roselt today, was carrying a slight lead, the end of the fourth block setting the score at 210 to 210. Roselt won the afternoon round yesterday but dropped the night match.

Although Ralph Greenleaf, six time pocket billiard champ, split his two matches with James Maitino yesterday, he entered today's play with a margin of 111 points. The total score at the start of today's play was Greenleaf 202, Maitino 280. Greenleaf is playing 19th points to Maitino's 1290. Greenleaf had the high run yesterday with a 100 while Hoppe's 8 was the high run in his match with Roselt.

Delaware, Nov. 2.—Ohio Wesleyan's football team has started on its week of practice in preparation for the intersectional game with Syracuse at Syracuse, N. Y., Saturday, in high spirits. The Battling Bishops and their coaches have a number of things to be thankful for even though it is almost a month until the Thanksgiving season.

The Ohio Wesleyan second team demonstrated against Wooster that they were almost as powerful as the regular varsity eleven. The Bishop second team started the game and carried the ball to Wooster's right yard line where they lost the ball when they forward passed over the goal line on the second down. The showing of the second eleven means that the Bishops will have plenty of reserve power in the remaining games on their schedule.

The Wooster game also gave evidence that the Bishops have at last perfected their aerial game. They completed 11 out of 25 passes attempted for total gains of 121 yards and held Wooster to a total gain of but 21 yards in forward passes.

The secondary list, therefore, might include the following teams, almost any one of which could be advanced to the front rank without further notice:

SEMI-PRO CAGE TEAM TO OPEN SEASON IN HOME GAME NOV. 29

Best Road Teams of Country Are on Isaly Schedule

The semi-pro basketball season will be officially opened here about Nov. 29 when the Isaly Pirates open their home schedule. According to Manager Mattie Hinklin the Pirates will take on some of the best teams on the road for the benefit and edification of Marion fans this winter.

Some teams already booked for appearances here are the Cleveland Redskins, Washington Palace Club, Ohio's Terrible Snakes of Kansas, the Buffalo Landolfs, the Goodspeed Tires and the Pirates' own club, both of Akron, and the Rockaway Club of Columbia. These and other teams will offer the home attractions and the team according to Hinklin will do quite a bit of traveling on its own hook. Outside the professional class several Ohio Conference collegiate teams will also be seen in action here including Ohio Wesleyan, Ohio Northern, Kenyon, Oberlin, and possibly one or two others.

One Game a Week

The Pirates will likely play only once a week in Marion this season and that will probably be on Tuesday night. The team is being coached this year by Douglas Torrence of Ohio Wesleyan who has been the coach for the past three years. The lineup this year is minus the services of three men who played last year. Fred Phillips and Harry Robbins, both veteran forwards, are now living in California while Knott, center and guard is living in Columbus.

However all those who have been considered as regulars, according to Hinklin, will be back. Next Miltard will be at center Applegett and Perry, both All Ohio forwards will be available for the forward posts. For guards the team will have Ray Miller, All Western conference guard and former captain of Purdue, and Fred Dehaene veteran of the Dairy outfit.

Griffin Back

Wes Griffin, of Marion, who for the past three years has been the manager of the fast stepping Ohio College sprinter will be back with the team this year.

Since the organization of the Isaly Dairy team five years ago the outfit has had considerable success in cage circles. Two years ago the team won the central Ohio championship in a tournament staged by the Ohio State Journal at Columbus in which over 100 of the best teams of the state were entered. Last year the Pirates were defeated by two points in the semi-finals of the same tournament by the Hinklin-backed Fords of Columbus.
